TWENTY WORDS OR LESS, ONE WEEK FIFTY CENTS PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

PORTLAND, Jan. 27.—Fresh Oregon eggs moved at 50 cents a dozen in the front-street market today, and some dealers reported orders on hand for eggs at that price which they were unable to fill, for the reason that the goods were not to be had. Receipts of locals have been light thus far this week and the supplies of Eastern and Californian that have been brought in were so small as to cut little figures in the market.

At several places on the street this morning there was not an egg in sight, the scarcity being even more marked than yesterday and the city before, and in some quarters it was reported that the demand of the city retailers was so strong that almost any price could be asked and obtained.

Local production, which was on the increase when the recent cold spell came, was in a day cut down to practically nothing, and since the improvement in the weather the increase in the Oregon output has been of little consequence. The chances are that it will be weeks yet before the supply of locals will be an important factor in the market.

But despite the short local supply, the prospect is for lower egg prices in the near future, probably before the end of the week. Arrangements have been made for supplies of Eastern eggs and there will also be fair offerings of Californian in the market this week. Dealers say that by Friday or Saturday there will be plenty of eggs here, and a sharp drop in quotations will result.

The poultry market today showed little or no change from the conditions of yesterday. Receipts in all lines were moderate and the demand was sufficient to take everything.

In country dressed meats the arrivals this week have been adequate, but prices have been well maintained, though inferior veal has been to some extent in evidence. Dealers today reported no changes from yesterday's quotations.
